Clown Emoji For iOS

Emojis started becoming an essential tool and the fastest growing language in online conversations. The plain text with emojis help expresses the right message between the people. These famous characters are successful in replacing emotions and feelings in a better way, where words fail. Emojis accurately enunciate the meaning and the point while sending a message. They help in briefing the text, making the tone lighter, adding humor to our words. They substitute the physical absence between the two people and have taken virtual conversations to another level. They have become part and parcel of our day-to-day texting.

What is clown face emojis?

With every update in smartphones, emojis are also getting updated now and then. Among them, the clown face emoji has gained popularity for a few years. The clown face entered the emoji ring as part of Unicode 9.0 and was added to Emoji 3.0 in 2016 and some other colorful faces. The clowns, as we know, are for amusing us and only associated with the circus. But now, they are used as emojis in smartphones. often, the Emoji stands in for a metaphorical clown or a fool. Clown Face expresses a range of tones and feelings, including crazy, weird, scary, or sarcastic. The iOS series have included clown face emojis in all their versions. The first clown face of the iOS series featured white face makeup, a red nose, an extravagant red smile, and two clumps of curly hair (red or blue) with a bald head. In 2017 the clown face was inspired by the movie "It," giving it a creepy look. In 2018 the Clown Face emoji was given a more realistic appearance with a complete wig of blue hair, along with partial white makeup and a proportional, open-mouth smile. Unfortunately, the 2019 versions are not accepted by the people as they look gave nightmares. But the clown face emoji is here to survive, and it has gained a place in the latest iOS 15 version.
