Quick answer

To add a Gmail account to Vivaldi Webmail, first enable IMAP in your Gmail settings under the Forwarding and POP/IMAP tab.

Vivaldi, a feature-rich browser, includes an integrated email client, making it a powerful tool for managing emails directly within the browser. Unlike standalone email clients like Thunderbird, Vivaldi's email client is smoothly integrated into the browser interface and comes free of charge. This guide will help you add your Gmail account to the Vivaldi email client with detailed, easy-to-follow steps. Additionally, we'll check some of Vivaldi's unique features and how they make email management more efficient.

Why Choose Vivaldi Email Client?

Vivaldi's email client is not just a basic email tool; it's a comprehensive solution for managing emails, calendars, and news feeds. Here are some standout features:

- Multiple Protocol Support: Works with POP3, IMAP, and SMTP.
- Organized Interface: Custom folders, filters, labels, and flags to categorize and organize emails.
- Offline Support: Access your emails even without an internet connection.
- Calendar Integration: Includes a strong calendar with multiple viewing modes and support for external calendars via CalDAV.
- RSS Feed Reader: Stay updated with the latest news through RSS and Atom feeds.

With these features, Vivaldi combines the convenience of a webmail client with the power of a desktop application.

Step-by-Step Guide to Adding a Gmail Account to Vivaldi Webmail

Follow these steps to set up your Gmail account within Vivaldi's email client:

Step 1: Download and Install the Vivaldi Browser

1. Visit the Official Website: Go to Vivaldi's website and download the browser.
2. Choose the Installation Type: During installation, select the "Fully Loaded" option. This enables the email client along with other integrated features.
3. Complete the Setup: Finish the installation process and launch the browser.

Step 2: Open the Vivaldi Email Client

1. After launching the browser, you'll see a theme selection screen. Choose a theme that suits your preference.
2. The email client will appear on the left-hand side panel of the browser. If it doesn't, you can enable it by going to:
 - Settings > General > Productivity Features and enabling Mail, Calendar, and Feeds.

Step 3: Enable IMAP Access in Your Gmail Account

1. Log in to the Gmail account you want to add to Vivaldi.
2. Click the Settings icon (gear icon) in the top-right corner and select "See all settings".
3. Navigate to the "Forwarding and POP/IMAP" tab.
4. In the IMAP Access section:
 - Select Enable IMAP.
 - Click Save Changes at the bottom of the page.

Step 4: Add Your Gmail Account to Vivaldi

1. In Vivaldi, go to Settings > Mail > Mail Accounts.
2. Click the Add Account button.
3. Enter your Gmail address and select IMAP as the account type (recommended for syncing across devices).
4. Click Continue.

Step 5: Authenticate and Complete the Setup

1. Enter Your Password: Use your Gmail login credentials. If you have two-factor authentication enabled, use an app-specific password.
 - To generate an app-specific password:
 - Go to your Google account's Security Settings.
 - Under "Signing in to Google", select App Passwords and generate one for Vivaldi.
2. Authenticate via OAuth: If prompted, complete the authentication in the Gmail OAuth window.
3. After successful authentication, Vivaldi will configure the account and start syncing emails.

Additional Features for improve Email Management
