In brief

Knowing the details of an unknown number is much needed if you continuously receive calls from a particular number. Yes, it can happen to all of us and might have occurred in some time too.

Knowing the details of an unknown number is much needed if you continuously receive calls from a particular number. Yes, it can happen to all of us and might have occurred in some time too. For example, on our mobile number, we used to receive calls from a person whose number is already saved in our contact, but at the same time, we might receive calls from an unknown number also.

Since online scams and telephone fraud have increased, the possibility of getting spam calls is higher. As a result, we can see that while checking the overall search analytics, a large number of online users are using the questions like, How to find out who just called me?, Who called me from this phone number (random number), how to find out who is calling me, etc. So now it is a severe headache for most users.

It is pretty standard, and there is no problem with that. But think of the situation where we receive continuous missed calls from unknown numbers or getting calls, and the person does not reveal the identity. In that case, it can cause some issues, and we even feel frustrated. So here we are looking at the possible ways to find who called us on the number.

How to Know Who Called Me?

There are few effective ways to find any unknown caller or number you receive calls from. Therefore, although several other options are available to find out who called on your phone, we mainly list used ones. However, please note that all the tools are from third-party services and not any mobile network provider; hence, blocking spam and unwanted calls is not 100% achievable. However, it helps to a great extent.

1. TrueCaller

There is no introduction needed for the TrueCaller. TrueCaller is one of the broadly used caller identification services. The phone number base of TrueCaller is vast; thus, we can find almost all the numbers using TrueCaller. If you are using the TrueCaller app on your mobile, it is easy to find the name and related details of any number you wish. The application will automatically show the caller's name for all the unknown numbers in your call log. Additionally, you can manually search any number by entering the number in the search box.

But, it is also to be noted that, to respect privacy, TrueCaller itself offers an option to unlist a number from the TrueCaller database. So if a number is already unlisted, that won't be available in the TrueCaller. In that case, the details related to that number will be unavailable.

2. Google Phone

Google Phone now offers spam filters and caller Id features like the TrueCaller. So, as we saw in the TrueCaller, the Google Phone app also provides the caller id option for all the incoming and the number listed in the call logs, and you can find the answer for those who called me on google phone. But with Google Phone, you won't be able to search any number manually. However, for those numbers already available in the Google Caller id system, you will get more accurate data when compared with TrueCaller.

3. Sync.Me

Sync.Me is also a similar app the TrueCaller. It can be installed on your Android mobile, and you will get notified by the caller details for all the unknown numbers. The app provides an intelligent mechanism to identify genuine and spam calls. With Sync.Me, you can easily avoid spam and other telemarketing calls. The app's web version offers a search mechanism by which you can search any number from a desktop or laptop.

4. SpyDialer

SpyDialer is another free phone number search engine. You can search number, name, email address, etc., using the Free Reverse Phone Search engine. The app is simple and doesn't require any login. Enter the number that you wish to search and hit the search button. You will see the result if the search engine finds something. The tool can also be used to search people, names, and addresses.

5. Google Web Search

To some extent, you can search over the web with the desired number. If the details were publically available, you could find the name and other details of the number over the web. While your Google search, If the number is suspicious or spammy, you might probably get results because some other users might have already reported the same before. Additionally, use other search engines like Bing, Yahoo, etc.

Is Reverse Phone Number Look Up Works?

Some users are reporting that we can find the details of the number using the reverse phone number lookup. But we don't think that might be an effective way to find the details of the number. You might get details of some number if you are lucky.

Conclusion

While concluding the list, if you ask us how to find who called me?, we highly recommend TrueCaller, to find any unknown number. Moreover, since free, you don't have to pay a single dollar for your search or lookup any phone number. One more thing is that TrueCaller is not only giving the caller id feature; you can use the same application to block any number or a list of unwanted numbers too.
