In brief

Did you know that taking paid surveys can earn you money without leaving your house? Although paid internet surveys are frequently advertised as a simple way to earn quick money, not all platforms are worthwhile.

Did you know that taking paid surveys can earn you money without leaving your house? Although paid internet surveys are frequently advertised as a simple way to earn quick money, not all platforms are worthwhile. It's challenging to determine which options are genuine and which ones aren't when so many are available. We evaluated the most well-known sites to cut through the hype and identified the ones that really pay. Using our insights to focus your attention on these five survey options will help you avoid wasting time on platforms that don't deliver.

The Top 5 Websites for Paid Surveys

Finding the survey sites with the best earning potential can be challenging if you register with too many companies, as this can result in contact overload. To avoid this, only pick those that best suit your availability and demographics rather than sorting through many options.

1. Pawns.app

In the ever-changing world of opportunities, Pawns.app stands out as a compelling choice for anyone looking to generate a sizable income through a distinctive set of activities. Online surveys have drawn interest due to their profit potential, but Pawns.app provides an extra way to earn money by sharing an internet connection. Like other well-known survey sites, Pawns.app lets people participate in surveys and share their thoughts on various subjects. Its dedication to providing polls that guarantee you receive fair compensation for your time and ideas makes it unique. With an average pay of $1 per survey, participating in Pawns.app can significantly increase your profits once you meet the minimum payout of $5.

2. Toluna

The Toluna platform is a site where you can participate in many polls and be rewarded for sharing your opinions. Users who successfully complete these questionnaires receive points that they can later redeem for cash and gift cards. On Toluna, there are other tasks besides filling in surveys, whereby you can earn rewards by gaming, watching movies, and interacting with other members of the community. Additionally, the platform is accessible to all users and ranks among the best ones for earning money on the internet.

3. Swagbucks

Swagbucks is another amazing option if you want to earn gift cards by doing online surveys. You can accrue points on the site by viewing movies, performing searches on their browser, completing surveys, and spotting great offers. The amount earned on surveys will depend on the length and difficulty of each of them, most can fetch you anywhere between 1 and 350 Swagbucks (around $1-3). To cash out, you can opt for PayPal cash or gift cards for shopping spots that include Amazon, Lowe's, and Target. If you buy at least $25 through any of the eligible stores on the website, that could be Amazon, Best Buy, or Walmart, among others, you'll get a $10 signup bonus.

4. InboxDollars

With more than $80 million in payouts, InboxDollars has a B rating with the Better Business Bureau (BBB). Since this platform pays in cash rather than points, it's easy to calculate your earnings before starting a task. Although most paid chances offer a modest sum, you can increase your earnings by taking more surveys. Signing up and using InboxDollars is free, and after you activate your account, you'll receive a $5 bonus. After that, you will answer a series of straightforward questions concerning your income, race, education, and other demographic details. This preliminary screening will help InboxDollars match your profile with the relevant paid surveys.

5. OnePoll

OnePoll is a reputable survey website that has been in business for over a decade. Only people in the US and the UK can use it, so you should start looking for another survey provider if you are anywhere else. After enrolling, it may take two to ten minutes to complete the brief questionnaires on their site. Compared to other websites on this list, OnePoll's earnings may not be the highest, but they still amount to something. With a smooth user interface and a quick payment processing time, this platform is still worth checking out, especially for users in the United States and the United Kingdom.

Conclusion

Taking online surveys might be one of the most convenient side hustles one can get. However, it should not be your primary source of income but rather a nice little extra you get on the side. As a survey taker, consider going for those that are brief and straightforward to finish because you will save more time and give reliable answers. If you register with several survey websites, you may be able to earn a sizeable amount of extra money. Want to check more about the Onepoll alternatives that exist out there?
